Grassroots Ban groups in New York make headway

The New York Times reports on the strength of the ever-growing grassroots citizens movement to ban fracking in New York state while "name brand" groups like Sierra Club and others are -- surprisingly to many -- pro-gas and/or pro-regulation. This is a great article about how the pro-ban anti-fracking movement is making much more sense to people than the professional green groups' acceptance of compromise and their pro-gas stance. Ban Michigan Fracking faces the same obstacles here in Michigan.

Join with us to register your community organization to call for a ban on fracking in Michigan by contacting us